The Company

Be part of the conversation and kickstart your career with a role at a fast-paced, innovative company. We expect your best, and we'll help you achieve it.

Third Bridge is a primary research firm that helps the world's leading investors uncover the intelligence that makes or breaks investment deals. We find industry professionals who are experts in their field and can share their knowledge with our clients.

Our clients are private equity firms, hedge funds and strategy consultants. They work with us when they need to get smart fast about a market, company or product.

The Role Research Analyst

As a recent graduate, you will join our Connections Team, which arranges private consultations between our clients and industry experts. You will learn how to identify the most relevant people to help investors answer questions across a wide range of industry sectors. This is the intelligence that reveals the true value in their deals.

You'll be on the phone talking to industry experts in a matter of days, and our clients will be looking to you to track down the insight they need to support their next deal-making decision. You will develop a deep understanding of what matters to a hedge fund analyst when they look at a stock, what drivers impact private equity deals, and how a management consultant helps form corporate strategy.

We'll challenge you to think creatively about each client project and look at their need from multiple angles. You won't be living in Excel and PowerPoint, or out of a suitcase – you'll be on the phone having conversations about global business and sector developments. These are stories you could be reading about days or months later in the Financial Times.

As a growing company, we have many opportunities for bright people to grow their skillset and take on significant responsibility. We're proud to say that most of our Team Leaders joined us as Research Analysts and achieved leadership roles within two years.

If you are interested in developing Excel skills or consulting skills, or are looking for a role at an early-stage start-up or as a sell-side Research Analyst who makes buy / sell / hold recommendations on a stock, Third Bridge is not the place for you.

Our Culture

If you are naturally curious and good at solving problems, have a thirst for knowledge and a passion for achieving results, you could have what it takes to flourish at Third Bridge.

We believe the people we hire make up the exceptional culture we have. Our core competency is to attract and grow talent better than anyone else in the industry. It is a key responsibility of every employee. We are always looking for graduates who are energetic, resourceful and a good fit for our company, who can identify themselves as analytical, curious, fearless and adaptable.

Ambition: Our founders' desire to build a great company is infectious, and we want to achieve great things. Working hard will get us there.

Fun: We don't take ourselves too seriously. It's important to us that those who choose to work here feel part of the team and have fun. As well as giving our teams a budget for socials, we also host year-end parties, summer away days and team outings.

Unity: Although we have six offices across three continents, we work together as one team. We are a close-knit group and we know that our collaborative approach fosters the creativity needed to solve our clients' complex problems.

Learning: Our business is about discovering intelligence and revealing true value. We like to learn new things, experiment with fresh ideas, and respond openly to change.

Our people and culture are at the heart of why we have been recognised as a Great Place to Work® for two years' running. We see it as a major accolade, which commends our working environment and who we hire – things we are very proud of and will continue to invest in.

Social

We have a number of social events throughout the year, both in smaller groups and as a team. We always have a big celebration dinner around Christmas. The latest event was a night out at the Central Harbourfront Carnival. We believe that being able to have fun together is critically important if we are to grow a sustainable business.
