

We are a partner-led, specialized PE fund administrator

Langham Halls administers more than 200 private equity funds globally from offices in Hong Kong, Singapore, New York, London, Luxembourg, Jersey and Guernsey. We are the largest private equity fund administrator in Hong Kong, established in 2008, with a team of 30 people. In Singapore we administer some of the most significant private equity funds in south east Asia.

Langham Hall is an independently owned and managed firm. As partners we know how it feels to launch a new business. We emphasize personal contact with our clients and are committed to their success. Our partners are directly involved with all of our clients and our work with them on an everyday basis

Rob Short, managing partner, built the internal fund administration platform at Goldman Sachs before leaving to establish Langham Hall. Andrew Read, head of Asia, is a Chartered Accountant and was an Associate Principal at McKinsey & Co. before leaving to establish Langham Hall in Asia.

We add value through the combination of our partner-led approach, specialized private equity experience, and high calibre team. Our business model is in contrast to the rest of the industry which has almost entirely gone over to generic services and factory style operations.

Our Hong Kong and Singapore offices are full service entities with multilingual teams where we conduct all of our administration for Asia-based funds. We do not sub-outsource any work to other locations.