All information provided in your application will be used for the postgraduate housing admission exercise only, and will be kept as resident records for administrative purposes if you are admitted.

VIII. Alternative Accommodation

1. Hostels in Hong Kong

There are a number of hostels in Hong Kong in which students can stay either short-term or long-term. Please visit <http://cedars.hku.hk/residences/nonlocalhousing/listofhostels.pdf> for information and reservation.

2. Off-campus Accommodation (Privately-rented accommodation)

Our Centre collects and compiles data on privately-owned rooms or flats, in the vicinity of the university campus, that are available for rental to students. Students can obtain such information from our intranet after completing the registration process with our University. Such information on housing can be viewed on-line at the following website:

<<http://intranet.hku.hk:8030/osa/app/accom02.form>>

Private accommodation in Hong Kong is relatively expensive and most landlords tend to consider at least a one-year lease. The average rent ranges from about HK$4,000 per month for a small single room to HK$10,000 per month for a small flat.

Students who prefer to look for off-campus rental properties are strongly advised to arrive in Hong Kong at least two or three weeks before the semester begins. This is to ensure sufficient time to shop-around for preferred housing. Students are reminded that they have to arrange for temporary accommodation on their own before suitable rooms/flats are secured.

Other than going through our centre, students can also choose to look for privately-rented accommodation through friends and relatives, or the local property agencies.

The flats advertised through property agencies may be relatively more expensive and a commission equivalent to 50% of a monthly rental fee is normally required.

Our centre offers assistance in matters relating to the renting of a room/flat. Please write to <accommodation@cedars.hku.hk> for details. A list of Frequently Asked Questions and guidelines on signing a tenancy agreement are available on our Centre's webpage under "Accommodation Service". Students are most encouraged to go through them before signing a tenancy agreement.

3. Off-campus Housing (University-rented accommodation)

In anticipation of the growing numbers of non-local students and the corresponding shortage of residential places, CEDARS has rented a small number of flats in Sai Ying Pun (西營盤) as a convenient option for this group of students and other needy local students who are interested in living in off-campus housing owned by private landlords.

For more information, please visit

<http://cedars.hku.hk/sections/Accommodation/OffCampusHousing/Universityrented.php>

For application, please write to CEDARS' Accommodation Unit email address at accommodation@cedars.hku.hk for details.
