

The Graduate Program

At Capgemini, we are committed to building a pipeline of talent capable of achieving our vision and future success. An important part of this commitment is bringing on young and bright individuals who share our values and goals through our Graduate Career Program. As a Capgemini Graduate we will equip you with the necessary business knowledge and skills to take on future responsibilities within our business, to exceed expectations in everything you do and grow into Capgemini's next generation of leaders.

Our graduate program runs over twelve months during which you will be placed in either one of our internal roles or at client site to participate in business and technology enable transformation programmes.

Throughout the twelve-month programme, you will have the opportunity to learn firsthand from industry experts and we will develop your skills and knowledge to become an expert. From day one, you will enjoy real responsibilities and make significant contributions to Capgemini's success.

Depending on the business need and your capability, you may be placed in either one of our service lines such as SAP, Cybersecurity, Digital/Mobility, Applied Innovation Exchange

Capgemini is more than just a workplace. It is an organisation of opportunity, innovation, collaboration, and it's where you can make lifelong connections.

The Ideal Candidate

We are looking for talented, analytical and innovative recent graduates in any IT discipline who have passion for technology. If you are a collaborative thinker, committed to self-development and determined to make the most of the available learning opportunity Capgemini has to offer, we want to hear YOUR story!
